Original prompt

Draw a small sun in the practice box using the four steps described above.

Answer

A medium circle in the middle, eight short rays around it (four at top, bottom, left, right, then four between them), two dot eyes, and a small curved smile inside the circle.

Reasoning

The sun is built from one big shape (the circle) plus repeated small marks (the rays) plus a simple face, so a child practises a closed shape, repeated lines, and small detail in one drawing.

Check

Compare with the key: one circle, eight rays evenly spaced, two eyes, one smile. A grown-up can count the rays aloud with the child.
