Greek Alphabet Chart with Letterforms, Names and Tracing Rows

Worked example / complete source key

Plan one tracing row for lowercase iota using a chosen model form, and state how its height is judged.

Answer: Place one model lowercase iota at the start of the row on the guide lines. Its height is judged against the specific printed model chosen for the chart, not against a default placement. In many printed models iota is a short letter with no descender, but the row follows whatever the chosen model shows. The row does not assert a universal height or shape.

Check: Compare the row's iota to the chosen model form and confirm the guide lines match the chart's stated layout.
