Alphabet Letterform Tracing and Stroke-Order Practice

Original tasks 1, 2 / complete keys

Task 1

Practice the uppercase letter H. Trace it once and write it three times. Use the numbered order: vertical down, vertical down, horizontal across the middle. Score your last letter with the four-point rubric.

Answer: Stroke 1: left vertical line down. Stroke 2: right vertical line down. Stroke 3: middle horizontal line left to right. Trace once, then write three H letters. A score of 4 means correct start, correct direction, consistent height between baseline and cap line, and readable form. A score of 3 means one point is weak; trace once more.

Reason: H uses two vertical strokes and one horizontal stroke. Practicing the order builds consistency. The rubric checks start, direction, height, and readability without demanding one exact shape.

Check: Compare your last H to the numbered steps. Check that both verticals are straight and the middle bar is level. Count your rubric points out of 4.

Task 2

Practice the lowercase letter o. Trace it once and write it four times between the baseline and midline. You may start at the top and move clockwise or counterclockwise, but keep the same direction each time. Score your last letter.

Answer: Place the pencil at the top. Move around the curve back to the top. Trace once, then write four o letters between baseline and midline. Both clockwise and counterclockwise are valid if used consistently. A score of 4 means correct start, consistent direction, correct height, and readable form.

Reason: Lowercase o is a round letter that sits between baseline and midline. The convention allows either direction, so the check focuses on consistency and height rather than one universal path.

Check: Check that each o touches the midline and baseline without going above or below. Confirm the direction is the same for all four letters. Score out of 4.

Task 3

Practice the lowercase letter p. Trace it once and write it three times. The vertical stroke goes down below the baseline, and the round part sits between baseline and midline. Score your last letter.

Answer: Stroke 1: vertical line down from the midline, through the baseline, and below it. Stroke 2: round part from the midline back to the vertical. Trace once, then write three p letters. A score of 4 means the vertical descends below the baseline, the round part stays between baseline and midline, the start is correct, and the letter is readable.

Reason: Lowercase p has a descender, so it tests the baseline-to-midline convention plus the below-baseline part. The rubric checks height and readability.

Check: Look at the bottom of the vertical stroke: it should go below the baseline. The round part should not rise above the midline. Score out of 4.

Task 4

Practice the uppercase letter A. Trace it once and write it three times. Use the numbered order: left diagonal down, right diagonal down, horizontal crossbar. Score your last letter.

Answer: Stroke 1: left diagonal from the top to the baseline. Stroke 2: right diagonal from the top to the baseline. Stroke 3: horizontal crossbar left to right. Trace once, then write three A letters. A score of 4 means both diagonals meet at the top, the crossbar is level, the height is consistent, and the letter is readable.

Reason: A uses two diagonals and a crossbar. The order builds a stable shape. The rubric accepts valid variations in crossbar height as long as the letter is clear.

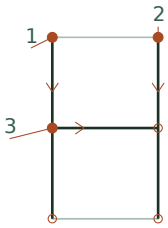

Check: Check that the two diagonals meet at the top and reach the baseline. Confirm the crossbar is horizontal. Score out of 4.

Source rubric / reflection

- [ ] Start point matches the first numbered step.
- [ ] Stroke direction follows the numbered order.
- [ ] Letter height follows the baseline-to-midline convention, with ascenders above and descenders below.
- [ ] Letter is readable and consistent with the other letters in the row.
- [ ] Valid alternative styles are accepted when clear and consistent.

Reflection: What did you check, what did you change, and what will you try next?
