Cute Dinosaur Drawing: Body and Spike Construction

Ordinary topic reference / separately checked pixels

Cute Dinosaur Drawing: Body and Spike Construction

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: Draw a cute dinosaur with a wide body oval, a large head circle, a tapered tail, two short legs, and five spikes along the back. Use alternating medium and small spikes. Describe the result and check it against the convention.

Answer: The drawing shows a rounded dinosaur with a head about half the body width, a tail tapering to a rounded tip, and two thick legs. Five spikes sit on the back line: medium, small, medium, small, medium. Each spike base touches the back contour, and the tail spike is slightly smaller. The dinosaur stands on its legs, and the tail does not cross them. The drawing follows the body construction and spike convention, with consistent spike style and clear rhythm.