Cartoon Angel Drawing: Wings, Halo, and Robe Shapes

Original tasks 1, 2 / independent work

Task 1

Draw a cartoon angel with an open wing spread. Use a head circle, a flattened oval halo with a gap, a downward triangle robe, and three layered wing shapes per side. Add one robe fold.

Task 2

Draw a cartoon angel with a closed wing spread and a rounded bell-shaped robe instead of a sharp triangle. Keep the halo as a flattened oval above the head. Use two wing layers per side and no robe folds.

Cartoon Angel Drawing: Wings, Halo, and Robe Shapes

Task 3

Draw a cartoon angel with a medium wing spread. Use a head circle, a halo oval, a triangle robe, and two wing layers per side. Add two robe folds that curve from the shoulders toward the hem. Include simple dot eyes and a small mouth.

Task 4

Redraw the same cartoon angel in a practice box with a different wing spread and a different fold pattern. Keep the head circle, halo oval, and robe triangle. Use three wing layers per side and three robe folds. Describe how the new version differs from the first.
