Drawing Warriors: Armor Layers, Weapon Grip, and Balanced Stance

Ordinary topic reference / separately checked pixels

Drawing Warriors: Armor Layers, Weapon Grip, and Balanced Stance

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: Draw a warrior standing with a wide stance, light chest plate, shoulder guards, and a two-handed spear held diagonally across the body. Use the layering order and balance line. Label the layers lightly.

Answer: Block the body with a wide stance and mark the balance line from the neck to the midpoint between the feet. Add a soft underlayer around the torso. Place the chest plate as a rounded rectangle overlapping the underlayer, then shoulder guards overlapping the chest plate edges. Draw the spear haft as a diagonal line from lower left to upper right. Place both hands along the haft, thumbs crossing the front, wrists aligned with forearms. Add straps over the chest plate. Check that the balance line falls between the feet and that every overlap is consistent. The final drawing reads as a grounded figure with clear armor order and a believable two-handed grip.