Prompt: Draw a cauldron with a 10 cm by 7 cm body, an 8 cm by 2 cm rim, and two 3 cm handles. Check symmetry.

Answer: The body is centered on a vertical line. The rim sits above the body, centered. Handles attach at rim sides and each extends about 2 cm beyond the rim side, so the total width across the handle tips is 8 cm + 2 cm + 2 cm = 12 cm. Measuring from the center line to each handle tip gives equal distances (6 cm each), so the drawing is symmetric.
