Angel Island Drawing: Shoreline, Hills and Bay Composition

Ordinary topic reference / separately checked pixels

Angel Island Drawing: Shoreline, Hills and Bay Composition

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: A student draws a panel 20 cm wide and 15 cm high. They place the bay in the lower 6 cm, the shoreline at 7 cm from the bottom, and two hill ridges above that. Check whether the composition shows depth.

Answer: Yes. The bay is foreground, shoreline is middle, and hills are behind. The hills are higher in the panel and can be drawn smaller and lighter. The shoreline is a clear boundary. This meets the depth cues.