Easy Kitten Pencil Drawing: Head Proportions, Ears, Paws, and Fur Strokes

Worked example / complete source key

A learner draws a head rectangle 8 units wide and 6 units tall, marks the eye midline at 3 units from the top, and places two eye ovals with a 1-unit gap. They add two 2-by-2 ear boxes on top and two 2-by-1.5 paw boxes below, level with each other. Describe a valid finish.

Answer: The proportions match the lesson example. A valid finish is to draw triangles inside the ear boxes with slightly outward tips, add three toe lines in each paw box, and use short light fur strokes outward on the cheeks and base-to-tip in the ears. Erase the guides, then darken the eyes, nose, ear outlines, and paw outlines. Curved fur strokes are also valid if they stay short and consistent.
