Map Drawing Practice: Compass Rose, Legend, and Boundary Lines

Ordinary topic reference / separately checked pixels

Map Drawing Practice: Compass Rose, Legend, and Boundary Lines

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: Draw a small map on a blank frame with a compass rose, a legend with three entries, and one boundary line that separates the frame into two regions. Use the convention from this lesson.

Answer: Place a four-point compass rose in the top-right corner with N at the top, E right, S down, W left, and the North arm slightly longer. Place a rectangular legend box in the bottom-left corner with three entries: solid line = boundary, dashed line = path, small circle = marker. Draw one solid boundary line from the left edge of the frame to the right edge, slightly above the middle, so it separates the frame into a top region and a bottom region. Add a small circle marker in the top region and a dashed path in the bottom region. Check that every symbol appears in the legend and that the boundary line is continuous.