Character Head Variations Worksheet: Drawing Multiple Designs from a Base

Ordinary topic reference / separately checked pixels

Character Head Variations Worksheet: Drawing Multiple Designs from a Base

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: A student has one base oval with a midline and center line. The cues are: hair tall and narrow, ears small and round, expression surprised. Draw the head and check it against the convention.

Answer: The student draws a tall narrow hair silhouette touching the top of the oval, two small round ears attached at the midline, raised eyebrows, wide eyes, and a small open mouth. The midline and center line remain visible. The head is clearly different from a second head with wide flat hair, long pointed ears, and a calm expression.

Reason: The hair silhouette changes the top outline, the ears change the side outline, and the expression uses two cues. The base guide stays visible, so the variation is easy to compare.

Check: Confirm the midline and center line are visible, hair touches the top, ears attach at the midline, and the expression uses at least two cues.