Negative Space Rose Drawing: See and Draw the Gaps

Original worked example / unchanged complete key

Prompt: A rose outline has four petal gaps and one outer background shape. Draw the negative-space study and check it. Use a hypothetical 10 cm by 10 cm paper and a 2 mm pencil tip.

Answer: Draw the outer background shape first, then the four petal gaps, sharing petal edges. Shade only those five negative shapes. Leave the rose blank. Count five shaded shapes and compare with the outline: four gaps plus one background. Measure one gap on the outline and the same gap on your drawing in millimetres; note any difference. The paper size and pencil tip are hypothetical examples; measure your own materials.
