Funny Stick People: Pose and Expression Variations

POSE LIBRARY / REPEAT A BASE

Same ground line / two arms and two legs / two eyes and one mouth

WALK / neutral | RUN / neutral | WAVE / neutral | SIT / neutral

One circle head, one spine, two arm limbs and two leg limbs. Attach arms in the upper third of the spine and legs at the hip. The base spine is vertical; the run leans it. Seated legs use two connected segments each. Keep line weight even, omit separate joint circles, and use only two eyes plus one mouth.

Warm-up: copy the same base in all three empty panels before changing limb angles.

BASE 1	SAME BASE 2	SAME BASE 3

These are chosen cartoon conventions, not anatomical measurements. Printed figures are illustrative, not physical rulers. Choose a head size that fits your own work; the article's 20 mm example is optional. Keep the same convention when comparing poses or expressions.

EXPRESSION LIBRARY / KEEP THE BODY FIXED

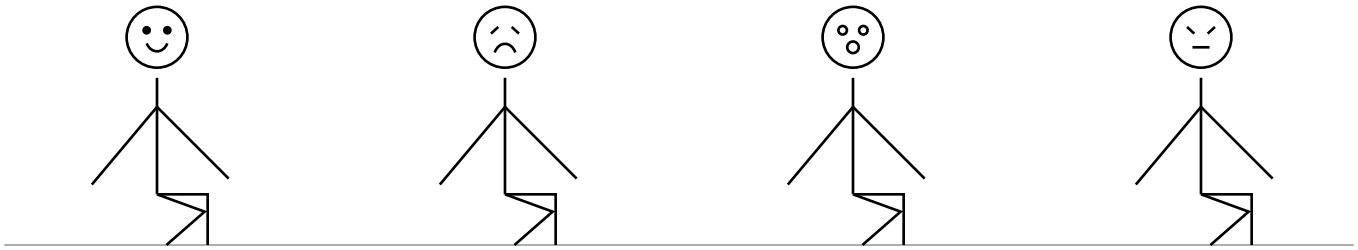

HAPPY | WORRIED | SURPRISED | ANGRY

Four chosen mark sets; explain consistent alternatives.

Happy uses two dots and an upward smile. Worry uses two slanted eye dashes and a downward mouth. Surprise uses two small open-circle eyes and one open-circle mouth. Anger uses two inward-slanted eye dashes and a short straight mouth. The dashes ARE the eyes, not extra eyebrows.

Same ground line / two arms and two legs / two eyes and one mouth

SIT / happy | SIT / worried | SIT / surprised | SIT / angry

The four sit bodies above are identical after horizontal translation. Only the head marks change. Use the same check in your own expression row. Explained, consistent alternatives are valid.

BLANK POSE-BY-EXPRESSION GRID

Draw one figure in every empty cell. Across a row, keep the pose fixed and change only the head marks. Down a column, keep the expression fixed and change the pose. Then circle three combinations and add one word explaining each choice.

WALK
SIT

Four pose rows x four expression columns = 16 blank combinations.

Rows: walk, run, wave, sit. Columns: happy, worried, surprised, angry. Four rows x four columns = sixteen different combinations.
